Oak Creek Whitetail Ranch

Where does a guy who already has six 200-plus inch whitetails on the wall hunt?

Oak Creek Whitetail Ranch near Bland, Missouri is no stranger to the elite hunters of SCI. For the past 10 years, at SCI's Convention in Reno, Oak Creek has exhibited some of the finest whitetail deer ever taken in North America.

Max, who owns a number of Sonic Drive-In Restaurants, previously hunted with Donald Hill and returned in late September 2009. "I shot the whitetail deer of my dreams at Oak Creek this year - a 327-inch non-typical," said Max.

Larry, who owns a Texas oil field service company, purchased a "first week-of-the-season hunt" at Oak Creek at auction in early 2009. "I've been bowhunting for 30 years and never killed a really good buck with a bow. While there I shot two really good deer - a 229-inch with my bow and a 267-inch with a handgun."

Larry's son Cameron, who accompanied his dad, shot a 181-7/8 inch deer with huge bases, 8 inches and 8.1 inches. Larry's friend, Mike, shot a 250-inch gross typical buck.

Donald Hill has intensely managed not only his 1,800 acres of habitat, but has fine tuned the genetic pool to produce the biggest whitetails. "I think we are finally seeing the fruits of our labor with fine deer like Max and Larry have taken recently," he said.

Oak Creek has donated a "first week-of-the-season hunt" to SCI for 2010. The hunt, which will be auctioned at the Saturday night dinner, is item #7.

The winning bidder can take any deer of his or her choice.

Larry's son, Cameron, was "allowed" to shoot a deer up to 180 inches. Well, 181-7/8 inches is pretty close.
